

Senior Project Reflection

For my product, I created brochures supporting my topic. I took those brochures to the East Clayton Dog Park and passed them out to the people that were walking with their dogs. I'm still happy with my decision for my product. I do still wish I could have gotten them passed out at an Animal Vet/Animal Hospital but the two that I asked wouldn't accept what I wanted to do. I also wish I would have passed out my brochures at the closest location of SNAP-NC because they relate to my topic very well, but their locations change often.

The easiest part of my senior project was creating my scrapbook. I enjoy art and being creative so creating a scrapbook that showed the process of my product was my way of doing just that. I learned that it can be really hard hearing people's opinions and feedbacks. Some people strongly disagreed with my topic because it does involve the government which is a very strong topic. Though I do understand their opinions, I chose my topic for a reason, which was to help save animals.

The hardest part of my senior project was finding somewhere to present/show my product. The Animal Hospital I really wanted would never call me back to inform me if they would allow me to pass out my brochures to the customers and I would visit at least two or three times a week for two weeks. The other Animal Hospital wouldn't allow me to pass out my brochures unless I was writing to support them, which I wasn't. I ended up resorting to just passing out my brochures at the East Clayton Dog Park, which was close to where I live.
